FWP Director makes stop at Region 3 meeting

By Alyse Backus THE MADISONIAN news@madisoniannews.com

Fish, Wildlife and Parks director Jeff Hagener attended the June 6 Region 3 Citizen Advisory Council meeting, covering a wide range of topics and receiving feedback from CAC members

"Region 3 has the most going on," said the director.

Hagener was recently appointed by Governor Steve Bull- He said Idaho is experiencing a ock and previously served as the director from 2001-2008.

"The agency needs to work with people," said Hagener. "There is a transition in landowners. Many are land rich and cash poor. We are also starting to see less multigenerational landowners."

There has also been a shift in land for sale being advertised for the amount of cattle it can may produce, to the scenery and wildlife a piece of property offers, said Hagener.

Hagener said FWP is working with major landowners to make their land less restrictive to the public.

Twin Bridges Rotary Club donates AED to fire department

By Alyse Backus THE MADISONIAN news@madisoniannews.com

The Twin Bridges Rotary Club made a much-needed contribution to the Twin Bridges Volunteer Fire Department.

The Rotary Club purchased an Automated External Defibrillator for the Twin Bridges fire department through a grant offered by the Rotary Club Districts. To qualify for the grant, the Rotary Club needed to partner with an organization in the community who showed a need a need for some type of equipment or ser-

An AED is a portable electronic device that uses electric therapy to restore the heart to an effective rhythm that was disturbed by an arrhythmia. The device is very easy to use and while many emergency response personnel take AED-specific training, bystanders at an emergency can use an AED as well.

By Alyse Backus THE MADISONIAN news@madisoniannews.com

The Ennis School Board weighed its options for creating a sidewalk on the northern side of the school at Monday's regular board meeting.

Becky Vujovich from Madison Byways, an organization dedicated to providing pathways for the Ennis community, presented the school board with a number of reasons the school district needs to create a safe walking route for students.

As of now, the north side of the Ennis Schools has no sidewalk and students are currently walking that way to school.

Vujovich said a sidewalk is necessary to protect the safety of the children, and Madison Byways earned a grant to do just that. The Madison Byways representative said the organization received a $5,000 grant for the construction of a sidewalk near the school, but the project must be completed by May of next year to receive the grant.

The school board was hesitant to jump on board with any construction plans right away. Several board members were worried the planned sidewalk would lead kids into a dangerous traffic intersection near Town

LEADERSHIP TRAINING

Madison County Commissioner attends County Leadership Institute

By Faith Moldan FOR THE MADISONIAN

Dave Schulz, Madison County Commissioner from District 1, is now one of five Montanans to attend and complete the selective County Leadership Institute in Washington, D.C.

The 10th Annual CLI was held June 2-6. Presented by the National Association of Counties, Schulz said it was an incredible privilege to be considered and selected to participate. The Montana Association of Counties considers all Montana county commissioners for nomination and selects one to recommend to NACO. Only 24 people are chosen nationwide to attend.

"I got to work with incredible people and do some very intense training," Schulz said. "I learned things that I will use every day and have tools and knowledge to bring back home."

Schulz said each day was packed full of training that made him step outside his comfort zone and he even had homework to do during the evenings. He added that he enjoyed how the presenters put a different view on issues and the training.

County officials from Pondera, Lewis and Clark, Phillips, and Ravalli counties have attended in the past. MACO paid for Schulz's participation and the county paid for his airfare.

The Institute has graduated more than 200 members from 44 states and 172 counties across the United States. It is known for enhancing the capacity of county officials to identify and implement innovative solutions to the complex challenges facing coun-

According to the NACO website, these county leaders not only discuss the core principles of public service leadership with prominent experts, they also collaborate intensively with each other to develop new ways to attack real-life issues of importance to the citizens of their counties.

Madison River CAC hears feedback on recommendations

By Alyse Backus THE MADISONIAN news@madisoniannews.com

Recommendations by the Madison River Citizen Advisory Committee received some feedback by the Region 3 Citizen Advisory Committee June 6.

The Madison River CAC was represented by seven people, three from Ennis, two from Bozeman, one from Gallatin Gateway and one from West Yellow-worked to create a management plan for one of Montana's most popular rivers that would include a healthy fishery, an acceptable range between users and absolutely no garbage.

Pat Flowers, Region 3 supervisor and an agency representative on the committee, said the committee broke the river up into eight different sections and the management of each section would differ.

Cheryl Morris, FWP river recreation manager, said the committee found there didn't seem to be many problems riverwide, but some areas experience congestion during certain times of the year. Morris continued

The Madison River CAC to say the committee wanted to look into user satisfaction more thoroughly

Even though problems don't seem to be widespread on the Madison River now, Flowers said that is no reason to not look into management options.

"People say if it ain't broke don't fix it, but it will break," said

Morris said the committee would like to see some areas redesigned for congestion issues and there may be a possibility for FWP to require annual permits for every river user. If things got worse, the agency could enforce more restrictions. She said the committee would also like to see glass bottles banned on the river.

The recommendations the Madison River CAC would like to see implemented immediately involve the collection of more data on the effectiveness of current management practices on the river.

The committee suggests the FWP needs to collect accurate recreation data for each section of the river. This would be done by installing "iron rangers" at all FWP, BLM and other public access points on the entire river. A survey would then evaluate user type, user satisfaction and user level. This data would be collected year around, and the first three years would be used to es-Hagener went over the management plans for many different animals including wolves, grizzly bears, bull trout, grayling, sage grouse, wolverine and lynx.

After sharing updates on all the different aspects of FWP, Hagener received feedback from the CAC. The members of the CAC presented the perceptions of those who live in the areas the members represent.

The Region 3 CAC has representatives from Bozeman, Butte, Sheridan, Canyon Creek, Helena, Livingston, Toston and Wise River.

Dan Crismore from Sheridan said many of the people he talked to were frustrated with how FWP handled predator numbers in Madison County and the lack of a biologist hinders many of the wildlife projects in the area, including hunting quotas for large predators.

Many other CAC members echoed those negative perceptions of FWP and said the agency needs to work on being proactive rather than reactive.

CAC member and Bozeman city commissioner Cyndy Andrus suggested the agency could work on positive public relations and promoting their programs rather than being defensive in the get, purchasing new ones is difficult. The Rotary Club saw this need and found a way to fill it.

"Many of our members saw this as a way we could provide a potential service," said Lois Lehwalder. "It was an automatic 'yes' for us since it's something the department could use immediately. We applied for the grant in the first part of April and we were granted it in a week."

The Twin Bridges Fire Department has utilized grants in the past to make upgrades to their equipment. In 2004, the department used a FEMA grant to update the quick response unit.

Carlson said the quick response unit is one of the best in the state. The unit is equipped to deal with anything from car fires to extrications. The unit also has an AED on board.

The Twin Bridges Fire Department serves 312 square miles including Twin Bridges, Melrose, Cardwell and Point of Rocks by Dillon. The department also serves as mutual aid to other fire departments in Sheridan, Dillon and Whitehall. The Twin Bridges department is the closest extrication unit.

Both the fire department and the Rotary Club are volunteer organizations.

"The Rotary's logo is service above self," said Lehwalder.

"We are all volunteers too," said Carlson. "We really appreciate the support and help of the Rotary organization."

SIDEWALK from pg. 1 dents with a safe way to get to Pump by where the air pump is currently. "I think it's a bad idea to put a sidewalk in there that will dump kids into the worst area in town involving traffic," said board chairperson John Scully.

Vujovich agreed the Town Pump area is a problem, but she pointed out a sidewalk would make things safer and would at least make drivers aware there may be pedestrians in the area.

There are several areas along the school grounds that need sidewalks to provide stuschool. The board agreed a sidewalk that runs in front of Town Pump probably isn't the best option. Instead, the board came up with another option to have the sidewalk run behind Town Pump and come out near Shedhorn Vujovich reiterated the project's deadline to meet the grant. She said the school needed to make a decision in the next month to avoid running out of time to get the project completed before summer ends. She went on to say the project needed to be completed this summer or early fall since weather won't permit the work to be done after that.

The school board also said they needed to consider how the new sidewalk would interface with new parking lot plans as Vujovich said Madison Byways had already obtained quotes for the project. An asphalt pathway would cost $27,000. A concrete version would cost $37,000. The sidewalks would need to be ADA-compliant.

Town Pump will also need to fund their part of the sidewalk, which posed another concern for the school board.

"I don't feel comfortable starting this project till Town Pump does their part," said Scul-

Ultimately, a subcommittee of Maria Lake and Craig George was assigned to work with Vujovich and elementary principal Brian Hilton to work on project. Superintendent John Overstreet said the board would not necessarily have to meet to discuss the outcomes of the committee since he was authorized to release funds for the project if needed.

tablish baseline numbers for users and their satisfaction levels. Special Recreation Permit commercial users would be required to complete a survey as well that gauges overall social conditions and satisfaction.

Education and outreach efforts are a priority for the committee as well. Education efforts need to be implemented that include outreach on river etiquette and keeping the river trash-free.

The committee would also like to monitor the impacts of glass bottles on the river, the effectiveness of management actions and the completion of the Hebgen Dam

The Region 3 CAC commended the Madison River CAC on putting together a thorough, well-written document outlining the final recommendations made to the FWP commission.

"I thought there would be a bias to a commercial use since most of the members of the committee are guides, but I was amazed at how well it was put together," said Region 3 CAC member Rick Arnold. "I do have some concerns as how to manage some of the recommendations but it is a really good document."

Flowers emphasized the importance of public comment on the Madison River recommenda-

"Public comment helps the FWP develop a plan and go forward with an environmental evaluation," said Flowers.

The public can comment on the final recommendations until June 21. To submit a comment, email mrrp@mt.gov.

Area snowpack dwindles to below-average level

By Alyse Backus The Madisonian news@madisoniannews.com

Warm temperatures in May caused the snow in the mountains to melt faster than most years.

In April, snowpack reached its peak and things were looking good. Then higher-than-average temperatures were substantial enough to cause snowmelt rates to accelerate. Nighttime temperatures rarely dropped below freezing. There was very little that could stop this winter's snow from disappearing.

The accelerated snowmelt caused streams and rivers to rise quickly. Most of the snowmelt ended up as early runoff in these waterways. In most cases, many streams and rivers will reach their snowmeltdriven peaks later this month

With the snowmelt speeding up, southwestern Montana can expect lower stream flows this summer even though the remaining snowpack will help stream flows through the rest of spring and into summer.

The rainfall much of the state experienced in late May helped out the snowpack situation. The precipitation helped some watersheds east of the Continental Divide. Most basins across the state will stay right around normal for water year-to-date precipitation levels. Although, rain is not what keeps streams flowing and even if southwestern Montana continues to get more rain, it won't be enough water to keep stream flows at what they should be.

The Jefferson and Madison River basins sit at the lowest levels waterto-date precipitation in the state. Both are at 88 percent. The Madison River is predicted to flow at threequarters of its normal water, and the Jefferson is forecasted to have less than half than its normal water level. Even though the month of May was 97 percent of the average of mountain precipitation, Jefferson River experienced very low snowpack

The Bitterroot River basin dropped from 95 percent at the end of April to 38 percent snowpack. Mountains in the southwest part of the state were hit the hardest.

With surface water levels dipping far below averages, drought conditions will continue to persist in much of the state.

The Ruby River basin is predicted to be the worst in the state with very dry surface water conditions. As the summer progresses with hot and dry conditions, the areas with low surface water levels are very susceptible to a dangerous fire season.

Utah man reaches plea bargain at Virginia City trial

By Alyse Backus THE MADISONIAN

The trial of a Utah man who was charged with vehicular homicide ended abruptly on June 5 after prosecutors reached a plea bargain with the defendant.

Louis Schardine, 29, struck a deal with prosecutors Wednesday afternoon. The jury was not sent out to reach a verdict on the vehicular homicide charge. Instead, Schardine pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana, a misdemeanor offense.

On Aug. 14, 2010, Schardine and his fiancé Sarah Nicole Fleming were involved in a car accident just outside of Ennis that killed Fleming, who was 22. Fleming had driven her truck to a local bar to pick up

Though many witnesses testified Fleming was seen in the driver's seat of the truck as the two drove away from the bar, state prosecutors accused Schardine of switching places with her at some point and being the driver at the time of the crash.

During Schardine's own testimony on Wednesday, he said he never drove under the influence and Fleming was in fact driving that night. He explained that he remembered getting in the passenger seat and tilting the seat back as they drove out of Ennis. Schardine testified he felt responsible for the crash because he knew Fleming had been drinking but he still let her pick him up. At the time of the crash, Fleming's BAC was 0.19.

It was after Schardine's testimony that the plea deal was County Attorney Chris Christensen discussed the plea bargain with Fleming's parents during the last recess before returning to court.

Schardine was also sentenced on Wednesday. He will serve probation and pay a $500 fine plus surcharges.

Commissioners consider recycling options

By Faith Moldan FOR THE MADISONIAN

The Board of Madison County Commissioners were presented with a number of options and will have to run the numbers before deciding if Madison County will continue to be part of the Headwaters Recycling Cooperative or branch out on its Headwaters began in 1997 when Jefferson County was looking for a recycling program that would work for rural communities and counties in Montana. Sherrel Rhys of Headwaters said it was really hard to find an option that would work. They learned of a viable system while at a DEQ training. With this system, there a few communities and counties collecting recyclable materials from the bins. Headwaters received grants to purchase the necessary bins. Money from the participating counties was put in too. Participants include Madison, Meagher and Beaverhead counties as well as communities farther away like Harlowton, Lincoln, Choteau, Augusta, Deer Lodge and Granite. Rhys said the program worked well for a while and they have tried to keep glass recycling going with the purchase of a glass pulverizer, but they don't always find markets for it. The glass processing was moved to Helena last year and added to the cost.

Management is another isis one truck that goes around to sue, according to Rhys. She said it is hard finding the right manager and that the board of directors has taken on more management duties. Rhys advised the commissioners to include adequate management time in with the budget if Madison County decides to do its own recycling program.

"There are always some surprises," Rhys said. "Communities need to stay involved. Their residents want recycling."

Recycling bins or "binnies" are located at most container sites around the county. Cardboard can be taken to either the Ennis or Twin Bridges sites where it will be compacted into bales and recycled. The Sheridan and Virginia City sites have a cardboard container which is hauled to Twin Bridges for compacting. Refrigerators, freezers and air conditioners can be recycled at the Twin Bridges or Ennis container sites, where the Freon will be removed free of charge. Last year, Madison County recycled 263.29 tons of paper, cans, and

One option the commissioners are considering is centering the co-op collection truck out of Madison County and letting the co-op field fuel and maintenance costs. Rhys told the commissioners that if Madison County left Headwaters the co-op would probably not be able to go on.

Headwaters' total budget right now is about $101,000 and each participant has a representative on board. Recycling is collected three days every two weeks. Madison County is committed to the co-op through the end of June. Solid Waste Board member Janet Dochnahl said that the county was able to build up its program because of Headwa-

"Looking at the numbers and having spent some time trying to study this process, the best interest for the county and taxpayers is to do this locally," Commissioner Dan Happel said. "We are producing income currently with cardboard. I am not sure if that is possible with other materials, but we are giving up some recycling income to keep this program alive. We can cut sites each day."

Commissioner Dave Schulz said the county has equipment and personnel it is not maximizing. He added that while although they are not recommending a decrease or elimination of recycling in the county. Solid waste truck driver Denny Lueck said the county may be better off handling the recycling itself. He said it seemed like a waste to run the Headwaters route if the bins are only a quarter full on the days they run and completely full a few days later and piling up while waiting for the next route

The next regular Board of Madison County Commissioners meeting is scheduled for June 18 costs since we're already at the at 9:30 a.m. in the commissioners' conference room.

State representative Shaw visits Twin Bridges Rotary Club

By Alyse Backus THE MADISONIAN news@madisoniannews.com

House District 71 Representative Ray Shaw filled in the Twin Bridges Rotary Club on this year's legislative session and how certain new laws would affect Madison County.

Shaw served on the natural resources, fish, wildlife and parks and state administration committees.

The representative said one of the best things the 2013 Montana Legislature did was to pass a bill providing schools with funding. He said the extra funding will especially help the school in Harrison.

Shaw said he also worked very hard with Representative Ryan Lynch to improve pay increases and the Public Employees Retirement System for public employees.

"We wanted to help the governor with how money should be distributed among state employees," said Shaw. "We wanted to spread the money out and give pay increases to the working

Shaw said he also worked on getting a non-compliance weed plan passed and worked on several bills concerning wolves.

The governor appointed the representative to a sage grouse working group. Shaw says this is an exciting opportunity to work to keep the birds from getting listed, and it's important for Madison County.

Another thing Shaw would like to see the state improve on is mental health issues. He said that as a Vietnam veteran, he has things that still haunt him. He is concerned that there are vets out there dealing with severe PTSD who aren't being treated.

As a first-year representative, Shaw said the job is challenging but rewarding. He is grateful to Madison County for the opportunity.

"I never rode the elevator," he said. "I always took the stairs. You meet a lot of people that way. The Capitol is a very busy, exciting place. I made a lot of trips to the governor and had a lot of fences to mend. I learned I can't change the world in five minutes."

Shaw is a fifth-generation Montanan and owns a weed spraying business and a ranch in the Ruby Valley.

Shaw ran on the platform of private property rights, protecting the Second Amendment and significantly decreasing the wolf population in Montana.

He defeated incumbent Bob Wagner and Robert Kennedy in the November 2012 election.

The representative sponsored two bills this legislative season. One created funding for the partial implementation of Pipestone Creek and Jefferson River Slough watershed restoration projects. This bill missed the appropriation bill transmittal deadline and died in committee.

Shaw's second bill died in a Senate committee after passing in the House. It proposed to revise education laws related to transfers between districts.

Free fishing on Father's Day

Submitted by Tom Palmer

Here's the perfect gift for Dad and Grandpa: free fishing for all over Father's Day weekend, June 15-16.

"It's a great way to get outdoors with friends and family and it provides everyone in Montana with the opportunity to get hooked on fishing," said Jeff Hagener, director of Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks in Helena. "You can fish without a license on June 15 and June 16, but you must follow all of Montana's other fishing regulations.'

In total, each year more than 230,000 residents and 160,000 nonresidents purchase a Montana fishing license. Anglers spend about $240 million annually in Montana for things like transportation, food and guide fees. For every dollar spent by FWP's fisheries program, anglers spend an additional $11 benefiting local communities and the state's economy

Montana's most popular waters include the Madison, Bighorn, Missouri, Bitterroot and Gallatin rivers; and Canyon Ferry, Flathead, Georgetown, Hauser, and Fort Peck lakes.

"Montana's 'fish for free' weekend is the state's Father's Day gift to dad's everywhere," Hagener said. "We want everyone to have a fun time, so we're also encouraging folks to check conditions first and to always keep safety as their top concern."

Those wishing to take advantage of this opportunity need to be aware that fishing for bull trout requires a catch card and fishing for paddlefish requires a paddlefish tag.

The free fishing promotion is set for Father's Day weekend, this Saturday and Sunday, June 15-16.

Helen Edwards Feb. 2, 1917–May 21, 2013

Helen Edwards passed away peacefully at home Tuesday, May 21, 2013. She was born in Butte to Mr. and Mrs. David Hirschy on Feb. 2, 1917. On July 4, 1940, she married James Edwards with whom she spent the next joyous 67 years. Jim predeceased Helen on Oct. 11, 2007.

Helen and Jim bought their first ranch in Brown's Gulch. That worked out so well that they moved on to a couple of ranches in Manhattan after which they moved to Ennis and then bought a couple of spreads in the Ruby Valley.

Helen was blessed with many talents. She loved to paint, work with stained glass, make jewelry and sew. She won awards for her sewing and quilting skills, but also made one of a kind wearable art for which she received many compliments. She, along with Jim, had a real talent for making friends. Once when someone commented on the number of friends that called or stopped by to see her, she replied, "To have a friend, you have to be one," and she was one to a great many people. She treasured her friends, was never lonely and always had a pot of coffee or glass of wine ready with lots of brownies.

She is survived and will be missed by her niece, G.G. Verone, close friend and care giver Nancy Schulz, and close friends Paul Degel, Cal Ward, Betty and Craig Staley, cousins, and numerous friends.

Memorial services will be held at St. Mary's in Laurin on July 13, 2013, at 10 a.m.

Sheridan Mayor's report

By Dean Derryberry

There have been several phone calls into Town Hall recently about Water Meter Billing. The Town is NOT billing off of the residential meters that were last installed. It was the Town Council's plan to start billing off of the meters the first of the year. Prior to that while doing a final inspection of the meter project our Public Works Director discovered that some of the meters were not installed properly. They were put in with the wrong registers on the meters. He contacted our engineering company who contacted the contractor who failed to respond to the problem in a timely manner.

At this point the Town Council directed me to delay the billing start up of the meters until they could be assured that all of the meters from the last meter project were in fact correct. Don Bair, Public Works Director, inspected each meter in town and found that there were a handful that were installed improperly. After several weeks of trying to get the contractor to address the situation the contractor finally, in a face-to-face meeting at Town Hall, informed us that they were no longer a licensed and bonded contractor and essentially out of business. At this point the Town Council chose to terminate our contract with them and requested that their bonding company step in to complete the repairs needed. To this point the bonding company has been slow to respond and step up to the plate to stand behind their obligation here.

As this issue is most likely to be settled in litigation the Town has chosen to do the repairs ourselves and request a refund for the costs during the litigation process in

The Town Council has requested me to direct the Public Works Dept. and Town Clerk to work on the meter problems and resolve for several weeks but the end is

Touring musician from Massachusetts to play Norris Hot Springs

Submitted by Dan Kennedy

Contemporary Instrumental pianist Dan Kennedy kicks off his

"Follow Your Intuition" 2013 Tour with a live concert – open to the public – at Norris Hot Springs at 7 p.m., Saturday, July 6.

Dan's latest album "Intuition" received a Top 10 New Age Album of 2012 award from NewAgeMusic-World.com, an Audiosyncracy "Best of 2012" selection, and a Reviews New Age (RNA) Video of the Month award for his video "Could Be." Claims the re-

John P. Olsen, "Dan

Kennedy, who began his career playing in coffee shops, delivers a wonderfully diverse atmosphere on his newest release 'Intuition.'" Dan's New Age piano music contains healthy doses of Rock and Jazz.

When "Intuition" was recorded originally, Dan's Grammy Award-winning producer Corin Nelsen enlisted veteran session musician Steve Holley (who's worked with Paul McCartney, Elton John, Ian Hunter). Out came not only an old wooden tambourine that was used by The Beatles on "Day Tripper" and "We Can Work it Out," but the actual claves employed on "And I Love Her." These percussion instruments can now be heard on Dan Kennedy's current album "Intuition." "The FOLLOW YOUR IN-TUITION 2013 TOUR is my first tour, and I am so glad to be kicking it off in Norris," says Dan.

Vigilante Electric Cooperative awards scholarships

Submitted by Rod Siring

Every year the Board of Trustees of Vigilante Electric Cooperative awards financial assistance to students that are the dependents of members of the Cooperative. The scholarship funds are derived from unclaimed capital credits. This year the Board approved 11 scholarships in an amount of $750 each. The 2013 school year recipients have proven themselves in and out of the classroom and therefore the Board provided more scholarships and more dollars than ever before. This year's recipients are:

Austin Carver, Beaverhead County High School

Kristen Cottom, Beaverhead County High School Morgan Evans, Beaverhead

Invite you to the Ribbon Cutting Cenemony at the

NEVADA CITY TRAIN DEPOT IN NEVADA CITY, MT JUNE 15TH AT 12 NOON

Charles A. Bovey and Sue Ford Bovey were Montana pioneers in the field of historic preservation. Their life's work, Nevada and Virginia Cities, speak to their commitment to our collective past. Please join us in honoring that commitment with the opening of a Bovey Visitor Center exhibit in the Nevada City Depot. A special ribbon cutting ceremony in honor of these two Montana treasures will take place on June 15th at 12:00 p.m.

-IC

Charlie was born and raised in Minneapolis, Minnesota and was an heir to the General Mills Company. He came to Montana after college and went to work for the Royal Mill in Great Falls. He soon became interested in farming and purchased a farm near Great Falls. During this time he met and fell in love with Rachel Sue Ford and they were married in 1933. They both loved history, but it was a first time visit to Virginia City in 1944 that sparked their passion for saving Montana's historic structures and collections. Recognizing the town's uniqueness, they joined with others to form the Historic Landmark Society of Montana that same year. The society worked to save landmarks that we in danger of crumbling or being demolished. The Boveys donated much of their own money to the society for buying old buildings and property. Fortunately, the Boveys already had years of experience saving from destruction. These structures now make up the town of Nevada City as well as engines and cars from Montana's railroad past. Keeping the towns alive was a labor of love involving the operation of several businesses like restaurants, hotels and the theatre all the while employing many Montana young people.

We are all indebted to their foresight and commitment.

3006

Following Charles' death in 1978 and Sue's in 1988, their son, Ford, continued their legacy. The State of Montana recognizing their value and cultural significance, purchased the properties and artifacts in 1997.

"I have been crowned the Baked Bean Queen!" -Jenny Moretz Pfafftown, NC (pop. 74,871)

Land Your Man Baked Beans What You Need

2 (28 oz) cans Bush's original baked beans large finely chopped sweet onion

1 large finely chopped green bell pepper 1/2 lb ground chuck 1/3 c ketchup (Try hot ketchup for a kick) 2 tbsp yellow mustard 4 tbsp light brown sugar 3 tbsp Texas Pete Sauce (or any hot sauce such as Tabasco)

6 slices hardwood smoked bacon pkg Taco Bell taco

seasoning Directions

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Brown the ground chuck. Add taco seasoning while browning beef (do not add water). Drain beef & set aside.

Combine beans, onions, peppers, ketchup, mustard, brown sugar and Texas Pete into a 16 x 10" casserole dish.

Add seasoned beef to the bean casserole.

• Place bacon on top of beans. Cover dish with aluminum foil, leaving a corner folded back for venting. Bake for approximately 1 hour. Remove foil and continue baking approx. 30 minutes or until bacon is brown and excess liquid has been cooked out.

• Set on table and watch out...enjoy!

Amber Yates will be on her way to Montana State University - Bozeman this fall. She very busy during high school wants to pursue a career in musical therapy. She would like to help people in rural areas and students within the special education system. She has won numerous choral awards (three years in a row) and volunteers her time to sing at the Madison Valley Manor. While in school, Amber was involved in pep band, Upward Bound, Honor roll, school plays, music festivals, speech, drama and debate and Glee to name a few. She also did community service around the state, which included working at the YMCA in Butte and the food bank in Missoula along with highway cleanup with her classmates.

Tucker Ott is going to pursue a bachelor's degree in business and an associate's degree in aviation from Montana State University – Bozeman. He was participating in numerous school activities. Some of those were track, basketball, football, FCCLA, Academic Olympics, student council, the Business Professionals of America, science fair and the National Honor Society. Tucker also helped as a teacher's aid/mentor for three years. Away from school, he volunteered his time to help with Ennis public park cleanup, highway 287 roadside cleanup and helped with the Moonlight Basin Special Winter Olympics.

Congratulations and best wishes to these fine students from the staff and management of Imerys Talc.

AmeriCorps NCCC helps Virginia City

Submitted by Sandra Hajt and Kayla McClanahan

On Wednesday, June 3, a team of seven young AmeriCorps National Civilian Community Corps (NCCC) Members will begin a five-week infrastructure improvement and restoration service project with the Montana Heritage Commission.

Established in 1997, The Montana Heritage Preservation and Development Commission strives to preserve the living history of Virginia City, Nevada City, and surrounding areas. These areas are considered some of the best-kept examples of the many places gold mining camps flourished during the 1860s in the Rocky Mountains. The Commission is responsible for overseeing the management, preservation, and interpretation of several hundred thousand culturally rich artifacts, 260 buildings, and over 200 acres of land that possess outstanding historical value.

While serving with the Heritage Commission, the NCCC team will work closely with the Preservation Team on masonry construction projects of historic cabin foundations, new floors, and log work to preserve structures. The team will also have the opportunity to serve with archeologists and the Collections Department in the cataloguing and identification of local arti-

"We are excited to embark on this new chapter of our AmeriCorps journey," says Team Leader Benjamin Pohl. "I expect that working with the Heritage Commission will provide us with a multitude of service learning opportunities that the team will take with them throughout their careers."

The AmeriCorps NCCC team seeks to gain more insight on life during the Gold Rush while serving with the Heritage Commission. Through the work they put in, they hope to contribute to the entertainment and unique educational experiences that the Montana Heritage Commission offers to the community and to visitors.

Hillstomp to play the First Annual Salmon Fly Boogie

vocalist/guitarist Henry Kammerer and drummer/percussionist John Johnson. The duo draw heavily from north Mississippi trance blues, a bit from the hills of Appalachia, and then use the energy of punkabilly, to create a raucous hill-country-bluesstomp with a fiery youth and vigor. It comes clanging and tumbling out of an assortment of vintage mics, buckets, cans, and BBQ lids drenched in rambunctious slide guitar.

In June 2002, Hillstomp emerged from the dust and dark with a raucous brand of hill Hillstomp is comprised of country blues rock stomp. It is a visceral music that makes you want to stomp your feet, shake your butt and love your neighbor. Whether playing original songs, traditionals, or the occasional revamped blues classic, Hillstomp has duct-taped together a distinctive sound that quickly bubbled upward in Portland's roots, blues and alternative-music circles. Their do-it-yourself brand of minimal gothic junkbox blues differs drastically from the 12-bar blues style listened to by your uncle. A whole different approach.

Hillstomp will begin at 7:30 p.m. All are welcome.

Sheri M. Jarvis art show and reception

Submitted by Toni James

The Elling House Arts and Humanities Center is pleased to present "What I Do": the eclectic work of artist Sheri M. Jarvis, Friday, June 14, from 5:30 - 6:45 p.m. Sheri will present pottery and interpretive displays illustrating selected commission works. A reading by Gary Forney from his new book, "Dawn in El Dorado - The Early Mining Camps and Settlement of the Montana Territory", will follow at 7 p.m.

As a potter, Sheri creates decorative pottery influenced by turn-of-the-century architecture and the flourishes and ornamentation of the Victorian era and Arts & Crafts movement. Her work is wheel-thrown and altered, frequently carved, using mid-range clays and glazes. Aesthetically, she looks for the relationships between structure and embellishment, whimsical detail and fine craftsmanship.

As a commission artist, She works in various media creating sculptural pieces that punctuate a specific message for her clients. She loves the freedom to work with new materials - always a new discovery, always an exciting challenge.

She states, "I believe in beauty, and in pushing the limits of purpose. I delight in challenging the notion of functionality as a necessary feature of art and suggest that beauty itself is a valid function. My work is whimsical and festive and it is in the joyful process of creating that I find my center."

The Elling House is located at 404 East Idaho Street (up the hill from the Fire Dept) in Virginia City. Reception is open to the public and free of charge. Contact Toni James at 843-5454 or 843-5507 or email info@ellinghouse.org for more info.

In my father's words: Virginia City resident finds book about her father's friendship with Elvis

By Alyse Backus The Madisonian news@madisoniannews.com

"It's been one of my favorite moments of my life," savs Allvson Adams as she describes the moment she found her dad's book detailing his intimate friendship with Almost five years ago, Allyson was going through a box of her father, Nick Adam's memorabilia from when he was trying to make his place in Hollywood. She stumbled upon an unfinished book that would allow her to know her father like she never knew him before.

Allyson moved to Virginia City when she was 13 years old and Montana served as an escape from the Hollywood scene in which she had grown

"I was coming from Hollywood madness," said Allyson. "Montana kind of saved my life and has always been a place I come to for strength and peace."

When Allyson was 7

mysterious overdose. He was 36 when he died and the death was never officially ruled suicide, a murder or an accident but rather his death certificate lists a vague "undetermined." To add to the mysterious circumstances, all of Nick's diaries and tape recordings disappeared.

Nick is best known for his role as Johnny Yuma in the western television series "The Rebel." He played Johnny Yuma from 1959-61.

In 1963, the actor was nominated for an Academy Award for Best Supporting Actor for his role in "Twilight of Honor."

When Elvis Presley was filming his first movie, "Love Me Tender," the famous rock and roll star introduced himself to Nick on the back lot of 20th Century Fox. It was the start of wonderful friendship.

According to his daughter, Nick and Elvis shared some common threads that made their friendship so strong. They both came from poor families with vears old, her father died of a strong mother figures. Nick's mother Catherine Adamshock was strong-willed, very much like Gladys Presley. Since Allyson was so young when Nick died, she doesn't remember her father's friendship with the iconic celebrity, but her memories of her father remain strong.

"Even though I was so young, my memories of my dad are very vivid," says Allyson. "We were very close and I always felt very connected with him. I felt like I understood him, but I had no idea my father was that close to Elvis.'

Over the years, Allyson has struggled with many unanswered questions about her father. She says discovering the manuscript brought her a welcome sense of peace.

She knew her father had written about his famous friends including Elvis and James Dean, but she never knew the manuscript existed.

"I had no idea this big long thing existed," she says.

"When I found it, I got chills and started to cry."

unfinished, Allyson wasn't quite sure what she wanted to do with the manuscript. She tossed around the idea of making it into a screenplay, but then she decided publishing it in its entirety would be what her father wanted. Allyson then began the process of selfpublishing the book.

"I am impatient," said Allyson. "I decided to publish it myself since I hate waiting around for other people."

Allyson started her own printing press, WaterDancer Press, through which she published "The Rebel and the King." She was then invited to Elvis Week in Memphis to premiere the book at the 35th anniversary of Elvis's death.

"I met people in Memphis who knew my dad and Elvis," says Allyson. "I was invited to Graceland and they gave me pictures no one had seen before."

The book touched many different people in many different ways. Elvis fans describe the book as a sincerely

Since the work was honest portrait of Elvis, and Allyson sees it as a lost conversation with her father.

> "It's a complete portrait of my dad," she says. "I got to know him. I could hear his voice and his personality through the writing. It's a portrait of my dad and Elvis not many people get to see."

> The book didn't sit right with the rest of Allyson's family. Allyson's mother Carol felt uncomfortable about visiting that time of her life. When Nick's death happened, the two were going through a tough custody battle and Nick's Hollywood career was on the rocks. Allyson's younger brother Jeb didn't remember her father like she did and also struggled with the release of the book. Allyson says the support of her family was something she needed through this process and the family eventually came around.

"Ultimately understood it was something I needed to do and it was an important journey that I had wanted for a long time," says Allyson. "In the long run, it brought us together. The book shines a light on the best part of my dad's life – when he was in his heyday."

The book is available in various bookstores including the Buffalo Dancer in Virginia City. It's also available on Amazon and all major e-book merchants. To learn more about the book, visit www. therebelandtheking.com.

For Allyson, the book represents the part of her father she wants people to remember.

"He was funny," says Allyson. "People gravitated towards him. He was a friend to some of the biggest icons in our day."

"The Rebel and the King" embodies the end of an era and brings a sense of closure to Allyson and her family.

"The Rebel and the King would both die young, but they managed to stir it up and fill life's cup before leaving us too soon," Allyson writes in her foreword to the book. "Enjoy the ride. It's how they would have wanted it."

HEALTH & WELLNESS

Three superfoods that can improve your health

(StatePoint) In a world where fatty, fried and frosted foods are often the cheapest, quickest and most readily available options, it can be easy to forget the true purpose of eating -- to healthfully fuel our bodies.

"The higher-quality fuel you put in your body, the better you will function. The right diet can potentially prevent you from developing certain diseases and conditions," says Gerry Cysewski, Ph.D., coauthor of "Spirulina: Nature's SuperFood," and Chief Science Officer of Nutrex Hawaii, nutritional supplement manufacturer.

And despite what many people think, healthful eating doesn't have to come at the price of taste or time. Foods rich in nutrition can make quick snacks and be incorporated easily into your favorite dishes.

Here are ideas for how to fit three superfoods into your diet:

Blueberries

Skip the sodium overload of chomping on chips and lower your risk for heart disease, diabetes and even the common cold with some blueberries. Blueberries are full of flavor as well as antioxidants, phytoflavinoids, Vitamin C and potassium.

While they make for a great snack on their own, blueberries are also delicious as a yogurt, oatmeal or cereal topper.

Spirulina

For a wealth of protein, vitamins, minerals antioxidants, take a cue from the ancient Mayans and Aztecs and incorporate spirulina in your daily diet.

Hawaiian spirulina, a microalgae-based superfood, contains more than 100 nutrients, and a three gram serving contains higher levels of key antioxidants, enzymes, vitamins and minerals than five servings of fruits and

"A single serving of spirulina is like a rainbow of good nutrition, containing the orange of beta-carotene for immune system support, the yellow of zeaxanthin for eye and brain health, the green of chlorophyll for anti-toxin health benefits, and the blue of phycocyanin for inflammatory balance," says Cysewski.

What's the best way to get your daily dose? Consider taking pill supplements, or if you prefer, mix spirulina powder in dips like guacamole or hummus. Or for a tasty breakfast, lunch or snack, try this smoothie recipe:

Blend these ingredients together and serve immediately:

- 1/2 cup yogurt • 1 cup of fruit juice (apple, orange or pineapple)
- 1 or more of the following:
- 1 papaya, 1 peach, 1 mango, • 1/2 cup of boysenberries
- or raspberries • 1 teaspoon Hawaiian

Spirulina powder

More information on the benefits of spirulina can be found at www.Nutrex-Hawaii.

Spinach

Popeye was onto something when he downed those cans of spinach. The dark leafy greens contain minerals, vitamins, pigments and phytonutrients that benefit eyesight, blood pressure, muscles, bones, skin and a healthy nervous system.

For a low-fat, low-calorie source of iron and protein, put the burger down and eat spinach instead. Opt for the fresh variety, swapping out iceberg lettuce in salads, or sauté lightly with olive oil and garlic for a great side. Spinach is also tasty in omelets and makes a healthy alternative to ground meat in lasagna.

With a little creativity, giving your body the right fuel it needs to stay healthy can be convenient and delicious.

This summer: creative ideas for staying in shape this summer

(StatePoint) It's not as easy to hide under layers of clothing during the summer. You'll want to look your best in those shorts, t-shirts and bathing suits; as such, staying in shape is key.

Many lifestyle experts say you have more than enough space for a makeshift gym inside your home or apartment, no matter how small it is. And during the warmer months of the year, you can also make great use of your home's outdoor spaces.

everyone "Not designate an entire room of their apartment, condo or home to exercise; but as long as you have some floor space, vou can get a great fullbody workout," says Wendy Froehlich of Homes.com, one of the nation's top online real resources.

Whether you live in a mansion or efficiency, you can stay fit with these great moves:

- Get Zen with yoga: All you need is a yoga mat and a little floor space to practice yoga; a quiet and relaxing way to wind down, stay flexible and gain strength. Try the poses on your back deck, balcony porch or even your living room. Likewise, Pilates moves can be done on a yoga mat as well.
- Easy Equipment: Get toned with free weights, exercise bands, ankle weights and stability balls. You can do your reps right in front of the television. And the beauty of this inexpensive equipment is that it doesn't take up much apartment when you aren't using it.

- Flat Abs: For minimal movement with maximum impact, try bicycle crunches. You'll target your core -specifically your obliques -- without disturbing the neighbors.
- Push it with a plank: Simply push off your mat as though you're doing a push up and rest on your elbows and toes. Keep your back flat and maintain the pose for two sets of two minutes. It's a challenging but rewarding fitness move that provides a full body workout and especially targets your core.
 - · Classic moves: Some estate listing and lifestyle space inside your home or of the best moves require no equipment whatsoever. Pushups, crunches, squats and floor lunges are all classic fitness moves that will help you tone and tighten in your very own home.

- Pull ups: A pull-up bar is simple to install in any doorway, so even those in temporary home rentals can target their biceps and back muscles with a few sets each day.
- Every day activity: Make simple lifestyle changes to burn extra calories throughout the day. If you live in a multi-story building, become a more active apartment dweller and take the stairs. Did you know that you can burn about 300 calories per hour of housework? Get a great workout while vigorously found at www.Homes.com. cleaning your apartment once a week.

TOPS' ten cool summer drinks

Submitted by Kimberly Greene TOPS

Watching your weight doesn't have to sentence you to a life of water and diet drinks. You can still keep this summer sweet without a lot of extra sugar and calories. Quench your thirst with these tasty suggestions from TOPS Club, Inc. (Take Off Pounds Sensibly), the nonprofit weight-loss support organization.

1. Add orange, lemon, or cucumber slices to sparkling

- 2. Cut your usual glass of lemonade in half and add sugar-free iced tea.
- 3. Freeze blueberries or raspberries in ice trays with water, and add them to your next summer drink.
- 4. Chill out by mixing seedless watermelon, cranberry juice, and ice cubes in a blender. Serve and mix with a teaspoon of

with a slice of lime.

5. Steep a peach tea bag in boiling water, chill, and serve with sliced orange.

6. Add a splash of pineapple juice to sparkling water, and garnish with pineapple wedges and fresh mint leaves.

7. Make your own iced coffee by adding black coffee to ice, then a splash of skim milk plus a shot of sugar-free vanilla syrup packet of artificial sweetener.

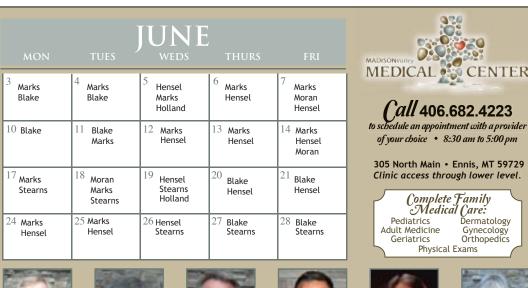

8. Mix one part cranberry or pomegranate juice with two parts club Loss." soda, and garnish with fresh raspberries.

9. Steep two green tea bags in boiling water. Chill and serve on ice with a tablespoon of honey and a lemon wedge.

10. Make a tasty summer "mocktail." Serve lowsodium tomato juice on ice

Worcestershire sauce and a few dashes of hot sauce (depending on how spicy you want your drink). Add a celery stalk and a couple of green olives if you'd like.

TOPS Club Inc. (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) is the original weight-loss support and wellness education organization. Tobacco Root Mountain Care Center May activities

Submitted by Roseann Troyer

We at TRMCC moved into marvelous May on the very first day. The students of Sheridan elementary school came and socialized with our residents in the afternoon.

On May 4 (the day of the Kentucky Derby) we all were rooting for Frac Daddy. Some of us were disappointed that he did not win.

Resident Council met on May 7 to discuss past and upcoming events; such as the Mother's Day Luncheon and the Seniors Prom.

Our Cloggers showed up on May 9 and gave a very fine performance that the residents really enjoyed. On the 11th, fresh spring flowers graced our tables, while a bountiful array of food was provided for residents and their family members. Several families enjoyed the hospitality of our care center and staff during the Mother's Day Luncheon.

Home on the Range was the theme of this years'

Senior Prom. Huge boot balloons floated by our fire place; while two saddles rested comfortably on the hearth. Outhouse door covers and saloon door covers were used to create the appropriate atmosphere.

Art students from Sheridan High created a very striking mural as the focus of our décor. The students who worked on this Western themed mural are as follows: Vevgen Ponomarenko, Cheyene Fuller, Keila Smith, Shilo King, and Marissa Hoaks. Thank you, the mural is still up!

The Ruby Valley Boys and Barb played toe-tapping music to get everybody moving. The residents sported colorful corsages made by Shirley Overcrest. They were made country style featuring sunflowers and bandana bows. Julie Larson provided Western attire and Gail Nelson did hair, make up, and nails. So everyone was ready for the dance. It was a marvelous dance and everyone had fun.

Another party was held on May 24. It was a wonderful birthday party hosted by the New Beginnings Church. Two residents have birthdays in May, Regina Given and Alvin (HOOT) Kirk. Ladies from the church (Mary Ola Churchwell and Deena Rodewald) served the shortcake with a choice of strawberry or vanilla ice cream.

Happy Hour was held on the 28th and several of our residents enjoyed cheese, summer sausage, chips, salsa and two other kinds of dip. Beverages offered were everything from beer, Bailey's Irish Cream, to Ice cold lemonade. For entertainment Gail shared several jokes.

We ended May on a sweet note. Activities served ice cream sundaes on the afternoon of the 31.

So ends the Merry Month of May, and we now jump to June, already.

Virginia City Players present 2013 season

Submitted by Virginia City Chamber of Commerce

The Illustrious Virginia City Players are pleased and proud to present their 2013 season. The Opera House is now presenting, Sherlock Holmes in "The Hound of Baskervilles." In July, The Players will be bringing back the classic American tale, "Rip Van Winkle." "Frankenstein" will thrill audiences, young and old, for the month of August. The Opera House closes on Monday, Sept. 2. Each melodrama is followed by the Varied, Vigorous Vagary of Vivacious Vaudeville Variety Acts.

The Opera House cast of actors is very exciting for this new season. Returning to the stage from the 2012 season are: Christina Koch, Brandon Petersen, Kelley Pierre, Stephen Seder, costumer, Laura Long and musical director, Errol Koch. Joining The Players are: David Connolly (Ellensburg, WA), Eliza Emily Warner (Helena, MT), Blair Rath (Livingston, MT), Logan Custer (Denver, CO), and Jason and Shannon Moreland (Livingston, MT). Bill Koch returns as artistic director for The Players.

Shows will be presented on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays at 7 p.m. and Wednesdays, Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays at 2 p.m. All shows are appropriate for families of all ages. Ticket prices are $16 for adults, $15 for seniors, college students and military and $10 for children, 17 and under. Reservations are required and may be made by calling: 1-800-829-2969, ext. 2 or by going to www.virginiacityplayers.

The Virginia City Players, in their 64th season, are the oldest, continually running theatre company West of the Mississippi. Make the Opera House part of your family's annual theatre adventure.

Ennis exchange student makes trip to international science fair

Submitted by Mellissa Newman

Ennis exchange student, Muhammad Nizamani, attended the Intel International Science and Engineering Fair in Phoenix, Arizona on May 12-17. Muhammad qualified for this trip through the Montana Tech Regional Science Fair in March of this year. Muhammad's project was titled, "Growing More Wheat and Conserving Water in Arid Lands" and compared the growth and health of wheat when watered by flood irrigation and drip irrigation. Muhammad's father is a wheat farmer in Pakistan and waters his fields using the traditional flood irrigation. Muhammad felt that drip irrigation would be a better route both in the growth of the wheat and in the conservation of irrigation beds and irrigation systems and also visited with professors at Montana State University along with a lot of research through books and the internet. His project followed the scientific method and provided him with valuable information to take home with him to Pakistan.

Muhammad traveled to Phoenix with two girls from Missoula, who also qualified through the MT Tech Regional Fair, the fair coordinator from Butte, the advisor from Missoula and myself. When we arrived in Phoenix we met up with other students, teachers and fair coordinators from Montana. There were 15 students and about the same number of adults from

There were activities every time into designing his wheat a student pin exchange, opening ceremonies, Arizona Diamondbacks game and a student mixer. Each of these events allowed Muhammad to meet students from all over the world. There were over 1600 students competing from over 70 different countries. He was definitely among the brightest students our world has to offer.

The science fair judging took place on Wednesday, May 15, and public viewing was on Thursday, May 16. There were two different award ceremonies, one on Thursday night for the special awards and one Friday morning for the grand awards. A student from Romania won for creating a viable model for a low-cost, self-driving car using artificial intelligence and won $75,000. Two students received $50,000 each with the second water. Muhammad put a lot of night of the week including place projects. One student was from California and developed a device to fit inside cell phone batteries that allowed them to charge within 20-30 seconds. The other student, from Louisiana, studied thousands of galaxy clusters and provided new data for astrophysicists on dark matter, dark energy, etc.

"The Intel ISEF was a great experience. It allowed me to see a completely new world of science and technology. It also allowed me to see where the young students and future scientists of the world are headed. I was amazed by the other projects. There were projects that I would never imagine. The science fair gave us all a glimpse into the future and introduced all of us to some of the future's exciting possibilities," said Muhammad.

Montana Tech Regional Science Fair funded

Muhammad's entire week in Arizona. They also provided a trip to the Grand Canyon and the Navajo Indian Reservation. We joined other students and adults from Montana along with other ISEF participant on this all day tour Tuesday, May 14. We made several stops around the south rim of the Grand Canyon and drove through a part of the Navajo Indian Reservation. This was an exciting trip and allowed Muhammad to visit part of our country he hadn't been able to see yet.

"My favorite parts of the week were, seeing other people's projects, visiting The Phoenix Zoo and, of course, the trip to Grand Canyon National Park. I want to say thank you to Montana Tech University for the opportunity to attend this marvelous event," said Muhammad.

The entire week was a great experience. Muhammad is already planning his project for next year so he can hopefully qualify and compete with fellow students from Pakistan. He is a brilliant student with a lot of innovative ideas and the motivation to make it back and compete again at the Intel ISEF.

'Science provides enormous opportunity to make life and the world better and in Phoenix, I got to meet some of the people, who are going to be making the most important changes of tomorrow. I hope I can help," said Muhammad.

If you see Muhammad before he leaves for home take the time to ask him about this trip and what he got to experience. I'm sure it is a trip he will not forget.

Our God Rains in the Valley

"Man is in love / And loves what vanishes / What more is there to say?" W.B. Yeats

I got up the other day prepared to water the lawn, but it was raining. Consequently, I changed my mind. I decided I didn't need to water the lawn, for God was doing it for me. And people wonder why I love God!

Nothing ever stays the same, and so I have learned to adjust my sights based upon what is happening around me. I am reminded of a great flood, and as a rescue boat passed through the town looking for folks to rescue, there was a baseball cap atop the water moving back and forth in forty foot swaths. It turns out it was Uncle Charlie mowing his lawn, for he swore he would do it come perdition or high water!

The world turns; why would we not want to move with it? Is change really that terrible or fearsome?

Things shift all the time. A child is born, and we love our children as we hold them close to our hearts. But loving them means letting them grow up; guiding them as they learn; looking on as they make decisions both wise and foolish. We are there to help them when they fall, but we must also learn to back off to watch them rise up, move away, and go forth to make lives of their own.

They are our children, but we don't own them. We have them for a while, but we are only stewards. They belong to God. They will grow up, move on, and have families of their own. That is the nature of life. We can fight it; we can rail against it; we can cry bitterly about the unfairness of it all; or ...

We can embrace the changes that come, recognizing that's the way of all flesh, but to do so is easier said than done.

For instance, driving through town lately has become a bit of a challenge. Now, don't get me wrong. I have spent a lot of time driving around places like Seattle and San Francisco. Anyone foolish enough to compare Ennis and Virginia City to those two metro regions should get fitted for a white suit with extra long sleeves. Be that as it may, with the change of seasons and warmer weather, driving through town is no longer quite the pleasure it normally is the other nine months of the year.

Do we complain? Of course. That's one of the major pleasures of life! We are never quite so happy as when we have something to complain about. I presume that's why we complain about the weather and the wind, the actions (or inaction) of our politicians, or the calls officials make (or fail to make) on the fields of play as we watch our teams compete.

We can choose to fight change, and know the futility of that particular exercise, or we can embrace it and appreciate it for what it brings.

Rain restores life and vitality to the earth; it cleans the air; it replenishes the aquifer and ensures we will have water to drink and fish to

When we change, fight we fight life, and I have come to learn it is a losing battle. Further, fighting change embitters us; it makes us miserable; and it makes us miserable company!

Accepting change, on the other hand, exposes us to the kaleidoscope of life. The sands may shift, but in so doing, they may reveal a nugget of gold.

Rev. Keith Axberg

Not all change is good, of course, but that's no reason to fear it. Knowing life is transitory actually beckons us to value what we have and, more importantly, who we have with greater passion and care, for nothing is permanent; nothing is forever – including this world of ours.

What IS permanent and what IS forever is this universe and the God who made it and us. And for that, I am eternally grateful (for a change) in this, our valley.

Keith Axberg writes on matters concerning life and faith. He can be reached at kfaxberg@ gmail.com.

I've never seen so many garage sales in the Alder to Waterloo area in one weekend as this past weekend. Everyone could have gotten their "garage sale-fix" last weekend. We have been cleaning out our shop for a month getting ready for a garage sale. It is the "pits" deciding what to sell, if you should sell it, or if you might need it again someday. But it really is worth it. We didn't even get done and the extra space is great! What I really hate doing is throwing things away; I just know that somewhere someone could use it. If I get pushed into throwing something away, I always put it along side the dumpster in hopes that someone will come along and take it. Many times I will watch the vehicles coming back from the dump and I will see items (mine and many others) coming back down the road in someone else's truck.

One thing I did learn this weekend is an idea of what it would be like when I kick the bucket and my three boys spilt up my stuff. We were all done with our big garage sale and it came time to split the bucks. So I just sat back and listened and watched. First it was the youngest one fighting about how they were splitting up the money from some of the old guns they had sold. Each was getting madder and madder at each other, then just out of the blue they were over it and said split it half and half. But I had to laugh because when they finally decided to split the money, they both remember that they did have one other brother. I was so proud of him, cause he just laughed and said, I don't care, you two take the money and split it.

So then just like siblings do, they knew he had just got one up on both of them they started harassing him about other items they were claims and wanted the money for. My youngest states to his brothers, "Mom said in her will, that nothing can be sold unless we all three agree."

So again my oldest son Davey tells them, "But also in mom's will, is a part that since I am the oldest, I have her powerof-attorney, and that makes me

Luke spouts off, you can't be mom's attorney, as Adam looks at him and says, "No that means he can sign our names legally." Then all I could hear, just like when they were little, "MOMMMMMMM."

I told them that I was changing my will, all material items that I have will have to be divided and be taken into their homes for at least two years before they can sell any of it. Also told them that they had better not fight over anything of mine, or I would come back and haunt all three of them! Hopefully they have a long time to work on getting bigger places for all my very valuable stuff!! Maybe that is why they keep pushing me to clean out and have garage sales. Fathers' Day is this week.

I must always say, that I don't think there is just one best dad. There has to be levels though, cause some are certainly much better than others. I know I have one of the best. He lost his first wife at the age of 26 to a heart disease and had a daughter only five years old. Then some time later he lost my mom at the age of 36 to cancer, so then he had our older sister and my brother, 6, and myself, 12. He raised us and I never heard him complain. He simply was our mom and dad and very good at being both. As far as my boys, only two are dads. I could not be prouder of Davey as a Dad; he took the honor of being a step-dad on and excels at it. Being a stepparent can be very trying but very fulfilling. When his kids all snuggle up with him, his smile tells the story.

My other son Adam is a dad too and again I could not be prouder of him. Right after the baby was born the relationship he was in ended and he was then taking care of little baby three days each week. He has never missed a day of taking care of his son. Sure I help him out many times, he has a full time job also. But it is Adam that took care of that baby and then little boy at his own home each week. He just took being a dad on so seriously and so enjoys being Gus's Dad. Happy Fathers' day to my own dad and both my sons Davey and Adam. As well as all the other wonderful dads and granddads!

So what have we learned this week? Money and possessions come and go; you will never see a hearse pulling a U-Haul! The simplest toy, one that even the youngest child can operate, is a grandparent. No person can know what life means, what the world means, what anything really means, until they have a child and loves that child. A great father doesn't tell you how to live your life; he just lives his life and lets you watch. Some parents can give the greatest gift, they believe in you. To get the facts! To be sure you have the whole story. Don't pass the buck. You have got to do our own growing, no matter how tall your grandfather was!

Nicer weather is certainly here, but so are the mosquitoes! It happened so fast, like one night they all hatched and wow were they hungry!

"By the time a man realizes that maybe his father was right, he usually has a son who is thinking he is wrong!" (Charles Wadsworth)

Why Should I Gare?

Noxious weeds are a serious environmental threat that is ecosystems throughout the West. Left unchecked, they will likely continue to expand their ranges and negatively impact the environment on which we all depend for our enjoyment, recreation and/or livelihood. That is the bad news. The good news is that while we may all have different ideas about how to control these invasive species, we can generally agree that they do need to be treated and their spread

While we do have extensive affecting and degrading natural weed problems in Madison County, we can still take a look around the state and count ourselves somewhat lucky Not to promote the "us vs. them", but really, it could always be worse. In the meantime though, there are a few basic principles that can help us limit the spread of noxious weeds in our backyard. The first and foremost tool would be PREVENTION. Being on the lookout for new invaders and quickly responding to any new populations of weeds is by far the most effective tool in protecting our lands. However, once a noxious weed has become established we can limit their spread by interrupting the seed production of these plants through a variety of control methods. If done consistently, these noxious weeds will be limited and eventually controlled.

Should you find yourself with noxious weeds on your property, know that there is no one way to best deal with the problem. Noxious weed managers like to refer to the many different treatment methods as items in a "toolbox", and the best tool is one that will work for you and your individual land management goals. Some of the more popular tools include herbicide application, the use of biological control agents, mowing, handpulling, grazing and burning. No one tool is best, and in fact the most effective control is often found when more than one tool is used at a time. For example, leafy spurge control is often enhanced when biological control agents are utilized along with prescription grazing or herbicide treatment. Likewise, different plants respond differently to various treatment methods. While hand-pulling is great for tap-rooted species such as houndstonge, it will only stimulate the growth of rhizomatous perennial weeds such as Canada thistle or Dalmation toadflax. It's important to know as much as possible about the plants you're trying to control before implementing treatment.

There are lots of great resources to help you learn more about noxious weeds. The Montana Weed Control Association, or MWCA, has a great website full of weed identification resources, general information and helpful contacts – mtweed.org. For help identifying weeds on your property, costshare information or treatment recommendations, please contact the Madison Valley Ranchlands Group's Weed Committee at (406) 682-3731 or the Madison County Weed Board at (406) 842-the Remember, treatment method is prevention, so be informed and be vigilant. Let's work together to preserve and protect the environmental health of the Madison Valley and surrounding areas.

CommodityInsite.com Ramblings By Jerry Welch FOR THE MADISONIAN

There are two broad scenarios unfolding in the livestock complex going forward. First, cattle supplies have likely peaked and will decline significantly into the final quarter of the year. The decline in production from the second quarter into the third will the first such decline in 17 years. Expect further declines in cattle futures to be well supported, as prices should move higher into years

The second scenario involves the hog market where the USDA pegs fourth quarter production to rise as much as 750 million pounds over the third quarter. If so, it would the second highest increase on record only behind 2007 where supplies rose 900 million pounds. In 2007, December hog futures peaked in early July just under $75 and by mid-November, prices slipped to less than $51. At this weeks end, December lean hog futures were trading north of $81.

The fundamentals for cattle are turning bullish while the fundamentals for hogs are turning sour. Yet, since early March, nearby cattle futures have lost $12 to nearby hog futures. And this week ended with nearby hog prices at a 4 month high while nearby cattle futures were pressing down on an 11-month

The Energy Department report on domestic crude-oil stockpiles offers a striking statistic: The U.S. currently has more crude oil in storage than at any time since 1931. From the Wall Street on the,

Journals, Money Beat. "There's a surprising historic parallel between the high supply levels today and stockpiles in 1931. In both instances, a massive new source of domestic production overwhelmed the U.S. market. According to Daniel Yergin's The Prize, in 1930, aging wildcatter Columbus 'Dad' Joiner discovered the East Texas oil field in Rusk County, Texas, which would prove to be the largest oil reservoir in the contiguous U.S. After producing virtually nothing just a few years earlier, by 1931, the field produced 500,000 barrels a day, and sent oil prices in Texas plummeting from over $1 a barrel to six cents a barrel."

However, this week ended with crude oil futures posting a gain of more than $1 a barrel with July futures trading north of $96 a barrel, and less than $2 from being the highest since mid-February. Thank goodness crude supplies are the highest in over 80 years, keeping prices relatively in check. Where would the market be if supplies were significantly lower?

The U.S equity markets are outperforming the commodity markets thru this week for the longest stretch in almost 15 years. And if Goldman Sachs and Citigroup Inc. are correct, the decade long bull market for commodities has ended even if the global economy expands.

Several others are jumping "bearish towards commodities" bandwagon. From CNBC in an article entitled, Warning: Prepare For The Commodity Super Cycle To End:

"Last year, Columbia University's Bilge Erten argued there have been three complete super cycles of between 30 and 40 years: the first peaking in 1917, the second in 1951 and the third in 1973.

We are in the midst of the fourth cycle, she said, which began at the start of the century and is driven primarily by the industrialization of China.

"It is not clear how long this cycle is going to be," Erten told CNBC.

"Overall, we found that super cycles have between 15 and 20 years of expansion. We've had about 10 years of expansion since 2000 so we have maybe five more years to go if this cycle fits the pattern of previous ones."

Silver and copper prices oftentimes predict the overall direction of commodities per se. This week ended with silver closing at it's lowest levels since August 2010 while copper ended at a 6 week low. Not a good sign for commodities! The planting delays in the Midwest due to excessive rainfall have become so pronounced that most analysts are predicting a shift of 2 to 4 million acres from corn and into soybeans. It only makes sense, they argue. Yet, since the first of May, soybean prices have out performed corn prices by $1.25 a bushel. So much for, "most analysts" predictions!

The Hard Red Wheat crop, K.C variety, continues to be downgraded and now pegged to be the smallest in 5 years. The Soft wheat crop, Chicago variety is doing far better and estimated to be the largest t in 5 years. Yet, Chicago wheat over the past five weeks has gained about $.25 a bushel versus Kansas City wheat. Adding insult to injury, K.C. wheat closed out the week at a 6 week low.

positioning Correctly investments just became more complicated, Josh

Brown of Fusion Analytics said Thursday.

'This is a Rubik's Cube," he said. "You try to solve one side, and you say, 'Well, this is good for stocks, bad for bonds, great for interest rates, employment.' Then you look at the other five sides of the cube, and they're all messed up. There really is no clear-cut answer. So, I think the right thing to do is allow this selloff to run its course." MADISON VALLEY RURAL FIRE DEPARTMENT By Steve Orr | Madison Valley Rural Fire Department

In spite of recent moisture been received, that has conditions throughout the valley remain dry. Although the recent moisture had postponed the start of the fire season, experts say that the fire season is shaping up to be more intense than last year.

The Madison Valley Rural Fire Department responded to two calls for service last week, both of which turned out to be uneventful.

On June 9, at 11:11 a.m. the MVRFD was dispatched to the report of a residential fire alarm on Ennis Lake Rd. Two firefighters were responding with a structure Engine when they were advised to cancel their response, as the homeowner would be checking on the alarm, which was believed to be a false

At 9:16 p.m. on June 9 the MVRFD was dispatched to the report of flames near the tree line on Sphinx Mountain. The MVRFD assembled a two-man crew and an Engine from Station 2 and another two-man crew and an Engine from Station 1, while three additional firefighters stood-by to respond if needed. A fire officer responded with a Command from Station 1 to attempt to locate the fire that according to the description in the report would have been in the Lee Metcalf Wilderness. MVRFD personnel and a Madison County Sheriff's Deputy scouted the area but no fire was located. Due to the reported location, the incident was turned over to the U.S. Forest Service.

If you have any questions or concerns, Madison Valley Rural Fire Chief Shawn Christensen invites you to contact us at 682-3311. We look forward to hearing from you. If no one is available, please leave a message and we will return your call as soon as possible. Ennis Schools budget amendment

From John Overstreet

The Ennis School Board held a special board meeting on Monday, May 20. The purpose of the meeting was to finalize the language for the settlement agreement with TRS, pass a proclamation for a budget amendment and conduct board training dealing with board superintendent relations.

TRS originally said the school district owed a little over $218,000, but the number was negotiated down to $188,000 through mediation. Since this year's school budgets do not to pay TRS, the school board 16.38 percent in general fund passed a proclamation to consider a budget amendment. The budget amendment would give the school board authority to pay TRS with reserves from retirement and excess reserves in the general fund.

This year's legislative session mandated that districts lower their retirement fund reserves from 35 percent to 20 percent. We will use $54,000 out of retirement fund reserves to pay TRS and this will get us down to our mandated 20 percent level. In the general fund, we are allowed to keep 10 percent provide sufficient financing in reserves. We currently have the students or staff.

reserves. The 6.38 percent in excess reserves amounts to about $163,000. This amount has accumulated over the years from the collection of delinquent and protested taxes.

The budget amendment will allow the district to use $134,000 of excess general fund reserves to pay TRS. That will still leave the district with $29,000 in excess general fund reserves. We will still have 11 percent in general fund reserves. The board felt this was the best way to pay our obligation to TRS without directly affecting

The Incredible "Mr. E" digs into reading

Submitted by Kathy Knack

Popular Rocky Mountain Magical Entertainer "Mr. E" will present his 2013 Library Program, "Dig Into Reading" at Madison Valley Public Library in Ennis at 7 p.m. Monday, June 17. This special program was especially developed for the 2013 Summer Reading Program.

The program engages audiences, young and old alike, by demonstrating how "Digging Into Reading" can enable them to dream big and make those dreams come true.

Magician "Mr. E" was inspired himself by a book he found in his elementary school library. His interest, already peaked by helping a magician in a school assembly program, was cemented forever with dreams of performing magical mysteries for others. From that day forward he has read every book related to magic he could, and can, get his hands on. His life as a magician has led to many exciting places and experiences. He has performed in 43 states and six foreign countries in every conceivable venue possible including living rooms, nightclubs and the grand stage. He and his family own and operate, "The Party People" and "The Theater of Mystery" in Pueblo, Colorado. Providing magical entertainment for a variety of tastes and very special birthday parties, they were named the "Best of Pueblo" by the Pueblo Chieftain in 2012. Also in 2012 they were awarded the Pueblo Performance Art Guild's "Outstanding Arts Achievement Award".

In "Dig Into Reading" "Mr. E" will present a variety of mysteries in a comedy program geared to the entire family. One might discover a dinosaur egg or encounter a mummy from the Great Pyramid. Who knows? What you can know for certain is that it will be a whole lot of fun and no one will walk away disappointed.

The program is 45 minutes in length and is a free event, open to the public. Madison Valley Public Library is located at 210 E. Main Street in Ennis. For more information call the library at 682-7244.

RESISTING CHANGE SINCE 1863!

Some folks made a fortune bere... But what they left behind is price-

All of Montana has the deepest pride and affection for Virginia City.

No more colorful pioneer mining camp ever existed. Dramatic tales of the early days in this vicinity are legion. Rich placer diggings were discovered in Alder Gulch in the spring of 1863 and the stampede of gold seekers and their parasites was on! Sluices soon lined the gulch and various "cities" blossomed forth as trading and amusement centers for free-handed miners. Virginia City, the best known of these and the sole survivor, became the Capitol of the Territory.

The very much alive ghost town, Virginia City, Montana, is frozen in time. It is a remarkably well-preserved Old West Victorian gold mining town just 50 miles west of Yellowstone National Park (90 miles by road). When the gold ran out, there was still enough left so that homes and businesses were occupied, but there was not enough wealth to remodel the buildings. So it froze, and now represents the whole Victorian era. Virginia City is the true and original Old West. It is a gem, held within an incredibly rich area of natural beauty, recreation and history.

Come rediscover Virginia City & Nevada City, Montana!

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE Reference is hereby made to that certain trust indenture/deed of trust ("Deed of Trust") dated 05/18/06, recorded as Instrument No. 113410, mortgage records of Madison County, Montana in which Gregory P. Frederick and Connie G. Frederick, as husband and wife was Grantor, Mortgage Electronic Registration Systems, Inc. solely as nominee for Texas Capital Bank, N.A. was Beneficiary and Security Title Company was Trustee. First American Title Insurance Company has succeeded Security Title Company as Successor Trustee. The Deed of Trust encumbers real property ("Property") located in Madison County, Montana, more particularly described as follows: Unit 4-D, of Hill Condominium, said Condominium located in the SE1/4 of Section 19, Township 6 South, Range 3 East, P.M.M., Madison County, Montana. Together with an undivided 4894 percentile interest in and to the Common Areas and Facilities which are established, defined and identified in the Declaration for Hill Condominium, recorded June 21, 1974 in Book 242, Page 6, records of Madison County, Montana. Said Condominium is for residential purposes only. By written instrument recorded as Instrument No. 149193, beneficial interest in the Deed of Trust was assigned to Wells Fargo Bank, N.A.. Beneficiary has declared the Grantor in default of the terms of the Deed of Trust and the promissory note ("Note") secured by the Deed of Trust because of Grantor's failure timely to pay all monthly installments of principal, interest and, if applicable, escrow reserves for taxes and/or insurance as required by the Note and Deed of Trust. According to the Beneficiary, the obligation evidenced by the Note ("Loan") is now due for the 12/01/12 installment payment and all monthly installment payments due thereafter. As of April 24, 2013 the amount necessary to fully satisfy the Loan was $151,477.11. This amount includes the outstanding principal balance of $145,156.08, plus accrued interest, accrued late charges, accrued escrow installments for insurance and/or taxes (if any) and advances for the protection of beneficiary's security interest (if any). Because of the defaults stated above, Beneficiary has elected to sell the Property to satisfy the Loan and has instructed Successor Trustee to commence sale proceedings. Successor Trustee will sell the Property at public auction the North Entrance of the Madison County Courthouse, 110 East Wallace St., Virginia City, MT 59755, City of Virginia City on September 3, 2013 at 2:00 PM, Mountain Time. The sale is a public sale and any person, including Beneficiary and excepting only Successor Trustee, may bid at the sale. The bid price must be paid immediately upon the close of bidding at the sale location in cash or cash equivalents (valid money orders, certified checks or cashier's checks). The conveyance will be made by trustee's deed without any representation or warranty, express or implied, as the sale is made strictly on an as-is, where-is basis. Grantor, successor in interest to Grantor or any other person having an interest in the Property may, at any time prior to the trustee's sale, pay to Beneficiary the entire amount then due on the Loan (including foreclosure costs and expenses actually incurred and trustee's and attorney's fees) other than such portion of the principal as would not then be due had no default occurred. Tender of these sums shall effect a cure of the defaults stated above (if all nonmonetary defaults are also cured) and shall result in Trustee's termination of the foreclosure and cancellation of the foreclosure sale. The trustee's rules of auction may be accessed at www.northwesttrustee.com and are incorporated by the reference. You may also access sale status at www.Northwest-trustee.com or USA-Foreclosure.com. NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE Reference is hereby made to that certain trust indenture/deed of trust ("Deed of Trust") dated 12/19/05, recorded as Instrument No. 110790; Book:549: Page:513, mortgage records of MADISON County, Montana in which Christian A Nix, a married man as his sole & separate property was Grantor, Mortgage Electronic Registration Systems, Inc. solely as nominee for America's Wholesale Lender, its successors and assigns was Beneficiary and Charles J Peterson was Trustee. First American Title Insurance Company has succeeded Charles J Peterson as Successor Trustee. The Deed of Trust encumbers real property ("Property") located in MADISON County, Montana, more particularly described as follows: Amended Lot 32, consisting of all of Lot 3 and the Westerly half of Lot 2, in Block 1 of Mirza Tract No. 1, an Addition to the Town of Ennis, according to the Official Amended Plat thereof on file and of record in the Office of the Madison County Clerk and Recorder in Book 2 of Plats, Page 141. By written instrument recorded as Instrument No. 144221, beneficial interest in the Deed of Trust was reciprod to Book 6 Marcian N.A. Suppose assigned to Bank of America, N.A., Successor by Merger to BAC Home Loans Servicing, LP FKA Countrywide Home Loans Servicing, LP. Beneficiary has declared the Grantor in default of the terms of the Deed of Trust and the promissory note ("Note") secured by the Deed of Trust because of Grantor's failure timely to pay all monthly installments of principal, interest and, if applicable, escrow reserves for taxes and/or insurance as required by the Note and Deed of Trust. According to the Beneficiary, the obligation evidenced by the Note ("Loan") is now due for the 10/01/11 installment payment and all monthly install-ment payments due thereafter. As of April 10, 2013, the amount necessary to fully satisfy the Loan was $197,139.81. This amount includes the outstanding principal balance of $170.985.92, plus accrued interest, accrued late charges, accrued escrow installments for insurance and/or taxes (if any) and advances for the protection of beneficiary's security interest (if any). Because of the defaults stated above, Beneficiary has elected to sell the Property to satisfy the Loan and has instructed Successor Trustee to commence sale proceedings. Successor Trustee will sell the Property at public auction the North Entrance of the Madison County Courthouse, 110 East Wallace St., Virginia City, MT 59755, City of Virginia City on August 20, 2013 at 2:00 PM, Mountain Time. The sale is a public sale and any person, including Beneficiary and excepting only Successor Trustee, may bid at the sale. The bid price must be paid immediately upon the close of bidding at the sale location in cash or cash equivalents (valid money orders, certified checks or cashier's checks) The conveyance will be made by trustee's deed without any representation or warranty, express or implied, as the sale is made strictly on an as-is, where-is basis. Grantor, successor in interest to Grantor or any other person having an interest in the Property may, at any time prior to the trustee's sale, pay to Beneficiary the entire amount then due on the Loan (including foreclosure costs and expenses actually incurred and trustee's and attorney's fees) other than such portion of the principal as would not then be due had no default occurred. Tender of these sums shall effect a cure of the defaults stated above (if all nonmonetary defaults are also cured) and shall result in Trustee's termination of the fore-closure and cancellation of the foreclosure sale. The trustee's rules of auction may be accessed at www.northwesttrustee.com and are incorporated by the reference. You may also access sale status at www.Northwest trustee.com or USA-Foreclosure.com.
